REPORT OF HEALTH OFFICER

To the Citizens and Municipal Officers of Holden:

Sometimes old fashioned ideas are better than new ones. But the idea that children must have certain contagious diseases and it not necessary to avoid them is not good. Such diseases lead many times to a whole train of other diseases especially pulmonary diseases. The health officer has been helped during the year when parents have reported cases in their own families. That is the law and it helps to check the spread, because the "catching" time is most virulent within the first few days. This is especially true of such diseases as measles, scarletina and whooping cough.

We have had two epidemics of whooping cough, either of which could have been avoided if the first cases had been reported and quarantined.

We had a suspicion of scarlet fever case which was quarantined in a modified form for observation; and the suspicion proved unfounded.

I wish to thank the citizens for their ready compliance with the orders of the state board of health in the disagreeable quarantine of dogs in the check of the dreaded rabies.

Obediently yours,
GEORGE W. SNOW,
Health Officer
